Week ending 2nd March 2018

Be respectful Be ready Be resilient Be responsible Be resourceful Be reflective Be remarkable

What a week at Bocking! Thank you to you all for your patience this week with the weather conditions. I would also like to say a huge thank you to the staff for ensuring the school continued to be open today and on Thursday. Learning has continued as per 'normal' for us this week. The children have all taken part in a class learning forum where they have discussed problem solving and what makes a good problem solver.

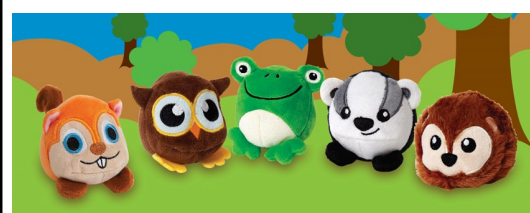

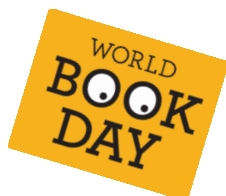

Parent headteacher time

I will be available next Wednesday (7th March) from 9-9:30am if you would like to drop in to talk about anything.

A polite ask please, that when information is shared from school via any communication that this is not then posted on any social media site. This is to ensure that we both meet data protection and in order that there is no miscommunication when information is posted on social media.

It was fantastic to see the children dressed up today for Book Day. Thank you everyone for trying so hard with your outfits. Well done too, to the staff for their efforts and all dressing as 'Where's Wally'. The children enjoyed a day of book related activities.

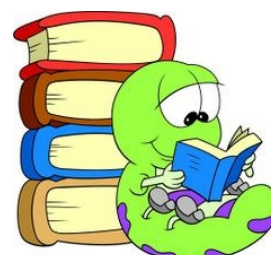

We are raising funds this half term for Farleigh Hospice. A selection of Woodland Flumps are being sold in school for £2 each.

BOOK FAIR

The Book Fair will be open in the school hall on Monday 5th to Wednesday 7th March from 3.05pm to 3.30pm.

Remember to bring your World Book Day £1 token to get £1 off any books you buy!

For all the books you buy at the book fair, we get free books for school so why not treat yourself to a new read!
