Week ending 15th March 2019

Be respectful Be ready Be resilient Be responsible Be resourceful Be reflective Be remarkable

Professor Matt Bothwell, from the Institute of Astronomy at Cambridge University, visited Year 5 on Thursday and answered all their space related questions. He also showed them high resolution images of the planets and solar system and they had an opportunity to handle an asteroid.

Thank you to everybody who visited the book fair this week, the school will receive over £500's worth of books in commission.

Year 4's topic this half term is 'Brilliant Bocking'. This week they looked at the school log books dating back to 1874. Back in July 1876 "attendance not so good, many children away this week haymaking", in December 1889 "several children were sent home today for not bringing in their school dinner money". On the 16th February 1926 "Kenneth B aged 8 received two strokes of the cane to his hands and four to his buttocks for tearing a page out of a book".

130 years later.....

A third of children in Key Stage 2 have school meal arrears totalling over £400. Please check your child's balance and make payments if necessary. All school meals should be paid for in advance.

It was lovely to see the children and staff with their 'Mad Hair' today. Thank you for your efforts and donations for Comic Relief, we collected over £130.

We are currently looking to recruit lunchtime assistants and cleaners on a permanent or casual basis. If you are interested or know somebody that may be please contact the school office.

Governor News

Mr Kelly visited this week to look at our EYFS class and speak about Early Years.

Rev Reid visited with Mr Robin Marcus, a National Leader of Governance.
